Aged 106.

The Paintsville Commercial says, Uncle Dearley Grim, who without doubt was the oldest person in the country, passed into the great beyond Friday evening at the residence of his son, Wallace Grim, on Tom's creek. He lacked only a few days of being 106 years old. Uncle Charley spent the greater part of his life in school teaching. He was a man of many ailments. He served the county many years as surveyor. He settled in Johnson county when it was practically a wilderness.

Aged old Granny Metcalfe, of Kentucky, 95 years old, says that Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is the best Grip cure, Cough, lung and throat-trial remedy that has been offered to the people during her life. Sold every where.

NATION.—There seems to be some dispute over the birthplace of Mrs. Nation the Kansas saloon wrecker. Both Boyle and Garrard counties claim the distinction of having produced the famous and unique character. According to several authorities Mrs. Nation whose father's name was George Moore, was born in Boyle county and she was nine years of age when her parents moved to Garrard county from which place five years later they moved to Missouri. The Danville Advocate in speaking of the subject says: "But now comes Mr. Clay Mock and says Boyle can not claim the honor. He knew Mrs Nation when she was a girl and he says she was born on the Bright place, in Garrard, across the river from his place, Cedar Grove. When Mr. Mock knew her Mrs. Nation was little Carrie Moore, just an ordinary, flaxen haired, country girl, not giving evidence of an especial antipathy to the product which has helped to make her native state famous. Mrs. Nation is a half sister to Mr. Tom Moore, of the Camp Dick neighborhood." There is another feature in Mrs. Nation's family history which may be regarded as coming nearer home. Her mother who was Mrs. Nation's father's second wife was a Miss Campbell of Boyle county. Now the Campbell families of Boyle, Mercer and Washington counties are known to be closely related and we have no doubt that an investigation would disclose the fact that Mrs. Nation has relatives right here in Washington county. Mr. Bob Campbell our clever Circuit Court Clerk whose ability in tracing up relationship is well known has been interested and we may expect to learn that the great crusader from Kansas is kin to Washington county.

CRUSADES—By the way, speaking of crusades, there is said to be a crusade on against gambling in our neighboring town of Lebanon and the grand jury which is in session at that place is warm after some of the sports. It is also whispered that the attendance of some of Springfield's citizens before that grand jury is desired but for what purpose no one can imagine.

ALL OVER.—The Democratic primary is on and by Saturday evening it will all be over but the shouting. There has developed in two of the races for county offices—that for jailer and that for assessor—very close contests and the result in either is hard to forecast. In the jailer's race is is a three cornered fight and as one gentleman expressed it, from the way it looks now "a blanket will cover the three runners at the finish. The assessors race seems to be anybody's contest. The two tickets consisting of three popular men on one side and two popular ones on the other, both have strong followings and each side feels confident of victory. In three of the magisterial districts there are contests for the office of magistrate. Springfield No. 9 and Fredericktown brings out three candidates while Springfield No. 10 and Kelly's Shop and No. 8 and Pottsville have two candidates each.

W. L. Yancy, Paducah, Ky., writes: "I had a severe case of kidneydisease and three of the best physicians in southern Kentucky treated me without success. I was induced to try Foley's Kidney Cure. The first bottle gave immediate relief and three bottles cured me permanently. I gladly recommend this wonderful remedy." Sold by Woods & Wimsatt.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest, in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Glass an employe of Barlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He said: "I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the drug store of Mr. Houlehan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy and have since always turned to it when I got a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by Haydon & Robertson.

Weddings At Lebanon.

Two weddings occured at St. Charles church yesterday morning. Wilferd L Thompson and Miss Bridget Horan were united in matrimonial bliss. Why they came all the way from Louisville to St. Marrys in order to get married is not known, but the groom was born and passed his boyhood days in the neighborhood of St. Marry's and presumably the recollection of those days had a fascination and prompted the desire to have the marrage vows made at the place where he worshiped in youth. The other wedding was that of Mr. Virgil Sanders and Miss Agnes D. Camborn daugh ter of Mr. Basil Camborn. The young people are both well known, and their friends wish them much happiness through life.

Near the scene of the above tragedy, at a place called Jacktown, another murder occurred Sunday morning, when Harry Burkett was shot and killed by Mack Ewing. An old grudge was the cause. Sometime ago Ewing, who drives a lumber wagon ran over Burkett's dog and killed it. Since then bad feeling has existed. Sunday morning they met at a saloon and Burkett asked Ewing to take a drink with him, which he refused to do. This enraged Burkett who drew his knife and cut Ewing across the hand. The latter drew his pistol and fired causing instant death. Ewing went to Loerty and surrendered to the authorities.

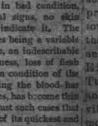
THE FOUNTAIN OF HEALTH

No External Symptoms.



The blood may be in bad condition, yet with no external signs, no skin eruption or sores to indicate it. The symptoms in such cases being a variable appetite, poor digestion, an indescribable weakness and nervousness, loss of flesh and a general run-down condition of the system—clearly showing the blood has lost its nutritive qualities, has become thin and watery. It is in just such cases that S. S. S. has done some of its quickest and most effective work by building up the blood and supplying the elements lacking to make it strong and vigorous.

"My wife used several bottles of S. S. S. as a blood purifier and to tone up a weak and emaciated system, with very marked effect by way of improvement.
"We regard it a great tonic and blood purifier."—J. F. Durr, Princeton, Mo.

SSS is the greatest of a tonic and you will find the appetite increases, digestion strengthens, and nervousness vanishes as rich pure blood once more circulates through all parts of the system. S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known. It can be had of druggists everywhere. Send for our free book on blood and skin diseases and any physicians for any medical advice wanted. MRS. NATION whose crusade against the saloons in Kansas has gained for her notoriety and whose work has started a movement which has stirred Kansas from end to end, shows evidence of giving way to a thirst for more glory. Some money making "manager" has taken her in charge and is using her as a star attraction on the lecture platform. Her appearance in Chicago recently only attracted a small audience. Mrs. Nation had better stick to Kansas and her little hatchet, for there she appears in a character original and all her own. But seriously her attack on the saloon evil of Kansas promises to bring forth fruit. At Topeka at a mass meeting 1200 men signed a pledge to forcibly close every joint in the town if the owners did not voluntarily do so themselves in a given length of time. The liquor traffic has become a subject of discussion all of the state and will doubtless soon become a subject for legislation. There is a strong sentiment in favor of repealing the prohibition law altogether as it has been demonstrated that in Kansas at least prohibition does not prohibit.

The Federal Court of Appeals rendered a decision reversing the case of J. J. O'Neal, W. F. Crites, H. H. Mullen and Robert Locke, of Louisville, who are charged with having conspired to prevent negroes from voting in the election for Governor in 1899. The case of E. C. Lackey, of Middlesboro was also reversed with the instruction to the lower court to sustain the demurrer and dismiss the defendant. This is a blow to the movement to stop bribery and intimidation at the poles. More's the pity.

The Cuban question which promises to give this government no little trouble is coming up again. In a speech at the Republican Club dinner in New York Whitlaw Reid discussed the protectorate for Cuba—the ... government under its own, ... its foreign relations, ... its customhouses ... the annexation. he fears it would be followed by a demand for statehood, which would work the ruin of our continental republic.

THE railroads in Kentucky are good things in more ways than one. It is estimated that if the action of the State Board of Valuation is sustained by the courts, in ordering railroad franchise valuations certified to the counties for taxation, the roads will pay over $600,000 in such taxes.

WINE OF CARDUI

A Chinaman on Lacing.

Here is what one Chinaman says in The North China Daily News about "Corsets Against Small Shoes:"

"What is the use of binding the feet? It is of the same use as tightening the waist among you Europeans. Do you tighten the waist for comfort? No. Is it to make one look taller or shorter? No. Then what is it for? It is for beauty. It is to catch the eyes of men. So is foot binding. They are both for the benefit of men. Foot binding does not do as much harm as waist tightening.

"When so many of your men have written against the harm of waist tightening and not succeeded, how can a few of your women think to put a stop to our ancient custom? You have many medical women. Why do they not loosen their waists before they ask our women to loosen their feet? Your enlightened Christian women should begin at home, by forming an anti waist tightening society. Then we Chinese may follow your example."

Look Out For Germs.

The recent epidemic of typhoid fever in an orphan asylum was traced to germs brought in on apples. This should warn housekeepers, if further emphasis is needed, of the risk in serving unwashed fruit. At every corner grocery the tempting fruits now so abundant are displayed uncovered, offering the best sort of catch alls for the germs of the street and air. In addition they are handled by none too clean fingers, carried through the streets in unprotected baskets and too often transferred directly to iceboxes, in which they may stand perhaps next to open vessels holding those excellent absorbents, milk and butter. The average cook rarely gives any reflection on her care of the food that is to be served uncooked. The vigilance and patience of the mistress, however, that will be needed to enforce her regulations in this regard are a small price to pay for the additional security to the health of her family.

A Freak.

Bass—Styles' wife is terribly plain and she does not appear to possess any compensating attractions, and yet Styles evidently thinks the world of her.

Fogg—Styles is an odd stick. When he was a schoolboy, he was actually fond of mental arithmetic.—Boston Transcript.

Rheumatism.

Nobody knows all about it; and nothing, now known, will always cure it.

Doctors try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, when they think it is caused by imperfect digestion of food. You can do the same.

It may or may not be caused by the failure of stomach and bowels to do their work. If it is, you will cure it; if not, you will do no harm.

The way, to cure a disease is to stop its cause, and help the body get back to its habit of health.

When Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil does that, it cures; when it don't, it don't cure. It never does harm.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE TALENTED DAUGHTER AND ASSISTANT OF A FAMOUS SCHOLAR.

Small Industries For Women—Women at the Polls—Barrie's Strange Theory—Poems In Silk—The Very Latest In Note Papers.

Miss Rosamond Rodkinson is assisting her father to give to the world the first complete translation of the Babylonian Talmud ever prepared. For the last five years she has been traveling in every part of the United States, bringing the attention of Jewish communities everywhere to this great work, and interesting her coreligionists as well as prominent churchmen of other denominations in the significance and value of its contents.

Dr. Michael L. Rodkinson, who came to America with his family from Vienna ten years ago, has been laboring at his translation for over 40 years, giving up practically his whole life to it. The original work of 63 large volumes has been reduced to 25 by condensation and a more compact system of treating the wonderful range of subjects dealt with. Dr. Rodkinson's task has been made doubly hard because he is not a good English student, and a great deal of the labor of turning this translation into literary English has fallen on his daughter, who is probably the only woman living who has a thorough knowledge of the Talmud.

MISS ROSAMOND RODKINSON.

Miss Rodkinson, who is only 24 years old, was born in Vienna. "I have lived in the atmosphere of the Talmud ever since I was a baby," she said recently, "and my father, years before I was born, was looked on as the most prominent living exponent of the work. I am in love with my present duties, and I feel that in bringing people in touch with my father's achievement I am opening up to them a mine of knowledge that for sound sense, wide range of matters dealt with and the laws of health, social intercourse and jurisprudence that it lays down has no equal in the world. Its precepts are as valuable today as when they were compiled."

Two Inch Heels.

Parisians have evidently rebelled at last against the common sense shoe. For awhile the English shoe was voted "the thing" in the smart set, but heels are now worn higher than they have been for many years. A two inch heel is not uncommon, and the bootmakers say that they are making them to order much higher. "To be worn on all occasions?" is the natural question. "Yes," they say; "we have no orders for low heels save for golf or other sports." The high heel that comes on walking shoes is straighter and much stronger than the Louis XV heel. It appears to be as comfortable as a high heel ever can be. Here it is called the "military" heel.

Miss Baden-Powell's Animals.

Miss Baden-Powell, sister of the hero of Mafeking, is devoted to animal pets, and she has a collection of these absolutely unique in London. In the drawing room, at 8 St. George's place, Hyde park, there is a fine apiary; two large show beehives are stationed in the window, the exit of the bees being toward the park, of course, but glass insets allow their buzzing operations to be perfectly seen by the occupants of the room.

Miss Baden-Powell has also a number of birds which fly about the house and are not confined in any way.—Philadelphia Record.

Got No Autograph.

To an applicant for his autograph Mark Twain on one occasion sent a letter the substance of which was as follows:

"To ask a doctor or builder or sculptor for his autograph would be in no way rude. To ask one of these for a specimen of his work, however, is quite another thing, and the request might be justifiably refused. It would never be fair to ask a doctor for one of his corpses to remember him by."

There was no autograph to the letter, which was typewritten throughout.

Don't get the notion in helping the poor that you can do more with a "cheerful word" than you can with a dollar.—Atchison Globe.

Always speak well of the dead, and if you have time you might speak a good word for the living occasionally.—Chicago News.

Mr. Fitzsimmons scrutinized the brim of his hat attentively, blushed, grinned and said:

"The United States is a fine country, your honor," and backed out of the office, responding with short, sharp ducks of the head to the secretary of state's farewell bows. When the doors had closed upon the then world's champion, the wrinkles at the sides of Mr. Sherman's eyes contracted into a smile.

"A great man that, Babcock," he said dryly to his secretary, and went on with his work.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

South Sea Superstitions.

In the south sea islands the old gods are still very close to present life, despite the vigorous profession of the newer faith which the missionaries have introduced. On village greens the stone churches rise into prominence. The people are unremitting in their attendance upon the services, wearing clean white shirts and gaudy bonnets, according to the sex of the worshipers, and carrying their Bibles and hymnbooks wrapped in spotless handkerchiefs. But in the jungles and on the waters no Samoan quite forgets his ancestral gods, the powers of nature, and in the domain of the hunter and the fisher these old gods reign supreme.

Moralists may not assume to blame them as untutored savages practicing absurd superstitions of an inferior race, for if any moralist will only go a-fishing with people of the infinitely superior Caucasian race he cannot avoid seeing a few practices which may not be superstitious, but which are certainly believed necessary to luck. What the boy does to the worm after it is on the hook and before it goes into the stream is proof that there is kinship in practice between the savage and the cultured sportsman.—Cor. Forest and Stream.

Custom Influences Language.

Pomologists, like botanists, find it impossible to enforce the rules of priority in names of fruits and flowers. In fruits the names of Bartlett for a pear and Telegraph for a grape have not been changed in spite of the efforts of leading pomologists and pomological societies to support prior names. Those who lead in these good efforts forget that the only law for language is the law of custom. In a famous grammar we are told "the English language requires the pronoun 'it' for all inanimate objects," but custom has so firmly made the sun a he and the moon a she that we have accept it. Thus it will ever be. To secure the adoption of a prior name reformers must bestir themselves before custom gets possession of the field.—Meehan's Monthly.

Care In Powder Mills.

The garments of workers in powder mills are pocketless, so that they cannot carry knives or matches, or indeed anything, and are made of noninflammable material. No one is allowed to go about with trousers turned up at the bottom, because grit is collected in that way, and the merest hard speck is dangerous.

The Most Beautiful Queen.

Queen Helen of Italy since her marriage has been considered the most beautiful princess of Europe, as she is now the most beautiful queen. It was her beauty that won for her the love of the prince imperial, through whom she is now the first lady of Italy. Her father, the king of no more important a realm than Montenegro, could hardly have expected of her so great a distinction, although her sister is married to Grand Duke Peter of Russia. The present king's unpopularity in court circles dates from his marriage to this dowerless bride. The jealousy with which he guards her has added to the personal dislike for the young king so common among those in high places. Whenever at court functions or during their travels etiquette demands that the beautiful Helen should be escorted by a minister or dignitary of the town Prince Victor has invariably refused the honor, permitting no one to "usurp the privilege." It is needless to say that these tactics have made him thoroughly unpopular.

A Singular Ailment.

One of the leading alienists of Chicago, with a practice of 30 years behind him, had an experience not long ago that was entirely new to him.

It was near his hour for starting to his lecture class in a West Side school. Three women were in the waiting room. Two of them were willing to make an appointment for the next day. The third one, a stranger, would hear to no delay, and the doctor's assistant showed her in.

"I had my hat in my hand," said the doctor, "and she had been told that I was in a hurry. She came across the room in a most leisurely fashion, however, taking three times as much time as the ordinary person would. She was chewing an unusual wad of gum—a whole package, I should say—and she was chewing it with desperate vigor.

"She sat down slowly, and I asked her a question. She looked straight at me and went on chewing. I spoke again and again, but she sat looking at me and chewing in as much silence as was possible under the circumstances. Finally I said to her:

"'Madam, will you kindly stop chewing long enough to answer my questions?'

"Then she burst out, sobbing:

"'That's just what I'm here for—I can't stop—I've got to chew—and I've been chewing just this way for more than two years.'"—Chicago Tribune.

Her Smartness.

An American hostess, on the occasion of a gathering of distinguished people, was endeavoring to add to the pleasure of a Frenchman by talking to him in his native language. Noticing that her lack of fluency was irksome to the lady and desiring to relieve her embarrassment, with praiseworthy amiability the foreigner said:

"Pardon, madame, somewhat the French is difficult for you. I am able to understand your mean-ness if you will speak English."—London Chronicle.

Poems In Silk.

For some years Japan has inundated the markets of the world with her squares of stuff called foukousas, which are used to wrap up the presents sent to friends in that country, and Europeans have not hesitated to make of them brilliant ornamental designs for modern furniture. In cushions, screens, etc., they introduce a charming freshness; a flight of birds, a swarm of butterflies amid brilliant flowers, giving the eye a vague dream of cheerful lights of fancies and summers that have no end.

But words can only faintly evoke an idea of what these poems in silk really are. It sometimes takes ten years to finish one of these pictures. It makes one think of the embroideries of the "King's House" in days of old, who styled themselves "embroiderers and painters." It is the same obscure and anonymous labor as that of the artisans of the middle ages, who have bequeathed to posterity marvelous liturgical embroideries and sublime cathedrals.

One would really say that embroidery had revived in the country of its origin, Asia. But instead of returning to the land of its cradle it has followed the general evolution toward the north and taken refuge in Japan. No matter where these silks are placed, they are a delight to the eye, a symphony in lines, a poem in colors, and our frail modern art furniture harmonizes splendidly with the mural hangings of an art so intense and so new.—Exchange.

A MUTUAL SURPRISE.

The Meeting Between an Ambitious Hunter and His First Grizzly.

In "Sketches of Life In the Golden State" Colonel Albert S. Evans gets an amusing anecdote of an ambitious hunter who met his first grizzly bear—in procession. The incident occurred in the woods near the site of the present town of Monterey.

The hunter sat down to rest in the shade of a tree and unwittingly went to sleep. When he woke, it was near sunset, and he sat up, rubbing his eyes and contemplating a return to his hotel several miles distant.

Just then a rustling and cracking noise from a clump of chaparral about 100 yards away attracted his attention. Out walked a grizzly bear, a monarch of his kind. He yawned, licked his jaws and then advanced toward the tree where our hunter sat, but evidently was unconscious of his presence.

His grizzly majesty had proceeded about 20 paces when a female bear followed him, and an instant later a third grizzly followed her at a slow, shambling pace.

IN THE WINTER.
Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)
For coughs and colds Benson's Porous Plasters are an unquestionably better remedy than any other—external or internal. Their medicinal properties enter the skin and so strengthen the seat of the disease.
They relieve and cure a "seated" cold without disturbing the system or upsetting the stomach. Other mixtures often nauseate. Benson's Plasters are medicinal in the highest degree, and quickest to act.
Placed on the chest or back or on both at once in serious cases, the good effect is fortunately, lately. The congestion yields, the cough abates and the breathing improves.
Lung or bronchial affections or kidney disease, are cured with the least possible suffering and loss of time.
Benson's Plasters are immeasurably superior to Belladonna, Strontium, Gelsemium or any other combination in other form. They are also preferable to cintments, liniments and salves.
Benson's Plasters have received fifty-five highest awards over all competitors, and more than 6,000 physicians and druggists have declared them to be one of the few truly worthy household remedies. For sale by all druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.
Be sure you get the genuine. Accept no imitation or substitute.

Mrs. Gregory Dead.
Mrs. Julia Gregory the wife of Mr. James F. Gregory one of Washington county's well known farmer citizens died rather suddenly at her home in the Pleasant Grove neighborhood on last Sunday evening. The deceased was a woman of many beautiful traits of character, a devoted wife and mother and a kind neighbor being a general favorite with all with whom she came in contact. To be taken away from husband, children and friends when apparently in the prime of her life and usefulness seems a particularly sad fate and one of the mysterious decrees of Him who does all things for the best. Six little children one a babe of only two weeks besides the husband are left to grieve her loss. The funeral took place Monday afternoon from the Pleasant Grove church.

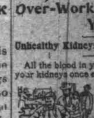
An Editor.
An editor is a millionaire without money, a congressman without a job, a king without a throne," says an exchange. He contracts without a saw or hammer; builds a railroad without a spike or nail and farms without a plow. He runs a butchershop with the journalistic world, deals out brains cheap for cash or credit. He loves those who advertise with him, as a brother. The editor is a teacher, a lawyer a preacher, and he sends the truth out to save souls, and he gets lost himself. He heals the wounded, cares for the dying and rescues the perishing, and starves himself when a ham sandwich would jerk him from the jaws of death.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.
Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.



All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.
The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.
If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.
Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.
Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.
It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.
If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderfulcures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you all about it; you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

all for Democratic Primar

At a meeting of the Democratic Committee for Washington county, all the committeemen being present, the following plan was unanimously adopted for the selection of Democratic nominees for the county offices and county district officers to be filled at the November election 1901. That a poll book for the various voting precincts in the county be prepared with sufficient number of ballots for each precinct. Each ballot shall to be numbered and the names of each candidate for the nominations for the respective county offices printed on the ballot in separate columns, leaving a blank space to each column under the printed name for the insertion of a name that voters may wish to insert and vote for other than the printed names. Opposite each name there shall be a square and each voter expressing his choice shall cross mark the square. That two discreet persons over the age of twenty-one shall be appointed from the residents of each precinct as managers of the votes of their respective precincts, whose duty it shall be to call upon each voter in his precinct and perform the duties herein set forth.

Said canvassers shall carry ballot boxes for the purpose of depositing the ballots cast. Boxes to be [illegible] city thereto left with the County Com- mittee and shall not be unlocked or opened except before the committee and candidates as hereinafter provided. That each person when depositing to vote shall be handed a ballot by the canvassers, and the voter shall mark as aforesaid privately for the name of his choice. Fold and deposit the ballot in the box, and the canvassers shall be within by the canvassers in the presence of the voter on the stub from which each is detached, should a ballot become soiled or mutilated by a voter or canvasser, the stub shall be marked cancelled and the ballot likewise marked and deposited in the box with the voted ballots, and another ballot given the voter, provided that not more than one ballot shall be given in lieu of the one mutilated or destroyed. Any voter who cannot read or write, or who is from any cause disabled from marking his ballot can call upon the canvassers to mark said ballot for him, which is to be done in the presence of both canvassers and voter.

The canvassing by the canvassers aforesaid shall begin on the 14th day of February 1901, and continue on the 15th and 16th of February 1901. They will begin their work each day at 6 o'clock a. m. and at 6:30 p. m. each day, and on the 16th of February 1901, they will repair to the usual place of voting and receive votes in the manner aforesaid or such persons [illegible] reason did not vote during the canvass. All Democrats who supported Mr. Bryan as presidential [illegible] 1900, and all known Democrats, and all youths who will have attained their majority by the November election 1901 are entitled to participate in said primary, and such persons are requested to be present to support the nominees at the general election.

The disagreement as to the qualification of a voter shall be referred to the committeemen of the precinct, or in the time of the vote is being taken by the canvassers, the candidates shall cause electioneering, and [illegible] or any person for him [illegible] stoner during the canvass. The candidates first applying shall pay to the Secretary of the County Committee the sum of $15 each, and the sum of $9 and the next $8, provided, that on the day for closing the book of entries the Secretary shall refund to the candidates for any one office as to pro rata equally between them the said $15 entrance fee. These assessments being made to defray the expen ses of the primary. Provided that any deficiency in the aforesaid assessments shall be paid pro rata by the successful candidates. The name of the candidate shall be entered on the ballot in the order that the assessments are paid. Candidates for magistrate and constable in the various magisterial districts are assessed in the sum of $2.50 each, to be paid in to the county committee's office, and their name to be entered upon the ballot as aforesaid and the vote canvassed in the magisterial districts by the canvassers as herein provided. Candidates for coroner shall pay the same as candidates for magistrates.

Assessments made to be in on or before the 4th day of February 1901. No candidates name will be printed on the ballot who has not paid his assessment on or before said date. After the canvassing and votes counted February 16, 1901, the canvassers in each precinct will deliver the boxes containing the ballots and the stub thereof to the committeeman of the precinct to be safely kept by said committeeman who is on the 18th day of February 18, 1901, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. produce said ballot boxes and stubs and canvass the votes publicly in the office of the County Committee, at the place the committee and the canvassers shall by motion or resolution designate, and the ballots opened and counted by the committee and the [illegible] nominees declared.

H. MILLIGAN, Secretary.

Married at Perryville

A dispatch to Danville Advocate from Perryville says: At the Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, Rev. W. Y. Davis, of Bloomfield, and Miss Elles Irvine McDowell, youngest daughter of Mr. Joseph McDowell, Sr., were married in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends.

The church was beautifully festooned with evergreens, the first arch marking the reserved seats for the families and immediate relatives, and the second, a large one, under which the bride and groom stood, was just in front of the chancel. The rostrum was profusely decorated with evergreens and potted plants. The bride dressed in white muslin over silk, never looked lovelier than when she and the man of her choice stood before the minister, Rev. John Tate, of Atlanta, Ga., (a half brother of the groom) who, in one of the most beautiful and impressive ceremonies to which we ever listened, united them in bonds which death only can sever.

The bride's sisters, Misses Pattie and Margaret McDowell, were bridesmaids, the former dressed in white, the latter in pink.

The ushers were S. T. McDowell, brother of the bride, Joe Irvine and Geo. Green of Danville, and Mr. Tate Duncan of Bloomfield, nephew of the groom.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of costly and useful presents. After the ceremony the bridal party were immediately driven to Harrodsburg where they boarded a train for the South. They have the heartiest congratulations and best wishes of all.

QUESTION ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Haydon & Robertson.

Nelson Notes.

From the Record.

Married, on Thursday afternoon by Rev. I. P. Trotter, at the parsonage in Bardstown, Mr. James W. Farnsworth of Bardstown, and Mrs. Maggie Moore of Mooresville.

An alarm of fire was sounded on Wednesday night at about 11 past seven o'clock, when a room in the Smith prop rty on Market Street was found to be on fire. The flames were extinguished before any damage was done.

The question of disposing of Rossland Academy was taken up by the members of the Presbyterian Church on last Sunday, it was laid over for consideration at a future meeting. Six thousand dollars have been offered for the property, the would be purchaser desiring to erect a handsome residence there. The congregation is about evenly divided on the subject.

Two Bardstown boys who left home several years ago to try their fortunes in new fields, and who, by their strict adherence to duty, have merited and won success are [illegible] Walker and Horace Beaven. The former has just become a partner in the large establishment of [illegible] Nurdton & Co., of Muncie, [illegible] while Mr. Beaven has embarked in the wholesale grocery business with Grotz & Co. at [illegible] Ala.

THE LAST CHARGE.

Trumpeter, blow on, terrific and thunderous,
Blow till thy lungs outrival the wild gales,
Spare not the wounded that writhe and wail us
Near us.

Drown in our ears all their piercing death wailing!
Deeply, desperate, let ring out your call!
Aim at the breast, for that makes the best target.
Fire!

Now let us up like a whirlwind of heroes,
Ride like your forefathers! Cavalry, charge!

Trumpeter, sound us a direful note and dangerous;
Blow to forget all the dangers at hand!
Blow till this cry of it, clinging and clangorous,
Call back the wanderers that fain to their death.

Close up, dragoons, and ride forward the golden,
Hampered, but free as the wind in its flight!
This is not earth, but dead men, that we ride on;
They were great soldiers once! Cavalry, charge!

Trumpeter, sound a note leader and tremulous;
Wail for those lost to us, ask for our death!
Cry loud for vengeance! Oh, let your note cumulous,
Rend the very air of the souls that have fled!

Blow! Let the sound of it be as a fifty gun fusillade!
Burst as a river bursts over the manger!
Who but can sing his home into their bosoms?
Who but can fling his home into their bullets?
On, on and over them! Cavalry, charge!

—Thomas Tracy Boone in McClure's Magazine.

RULED WITH A ROD.

Hot the Red Must Go Iron, With a Hotbot Tip.

"When all other methods of controlling wild beasts fail the keeper has only to employ an iron rod, which has been made redhot at one end," said an old circus man to a Star reporter recently. "Lions and tigers," he continued, "will cringe before the fiercest poker, and no matter how restless and fretful they may have been the sight of the glowing iron immediately brings them to their best of animal senses. It has an almost hypnotic influence over the beasts. I have seldom heard of an animal being burned in this manner, however, so there is nothing cruel in the treatment. It would not do for the keeper to burn the charges under his care, for the scars would mar the animal for exhibition purposes. The hot iron is a terror, just the same, and under its persuasion the kings of the Jungle are docile and ready to do what is wanted of them.

"In circus menageries the animals often become almost unmanageable. This is true of the younger specimens, who do not like the idea of being so closely housed, so much hauled about and so often cut off from the light of the outside world. When it becomes necessary to give their cages a thorough and sanitary cleaning, one attendant holds the beast in a corner by means of the redhot iron, while another thoroughly cleans the remaining portion of the cage, the work being accomplished by brooms and mops from the outside. In changing the wilding animals from the cages employed on the road to the larger and more commodious quarters at the winter station, what we call a strong box is used. The animal is coaxed along side the large cage and the steel strong box, open at both ends, is constituted a passageway. The animal hesitates to make the journey through such an unfamiliar looking object, however, and again the heated iron must be brought into play."—Washington Star.

A Successful Stratagem.

When the electric telegraphs was first introduced into Chile, a stratagem was resorted to in order to guard the posts and wires against damage on the part of the natives and to maintain the connection between the strongholds on the frontier. There were at the time between 40 and 50 captive Indians in the Chilean camp, General Pinto in command of the operations, called them together and, pointing to the telegraph wires, said:

"Do you see those wires?"

"Yes, general."

"I want you to remember not to go near or touch them, for if you do your hands will be held, and you will be unable to get away."

The Indians smiled incredulously. Then one of them made them each in succession take hold of the wire of both ends of an electric battery in full operation, after which he exclaimed:

"I command you not to go the wire!"

"I can't! My hands are benumbed!" cried each Indian.

The battery was then stopped. Not long after the Indians instructed them to liberty, giving them strict instructions to keep the secret. This had the desired effect, for, as might be expected, the Chilean telegraph was related in the strictest confidence to every man in the tribe, and the telegraph remained unmolested.

Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

Lincoln's Unheard Way.

In 1861, when Mr. Lincoln was on his way to Washington for inauguration as president, his train stopped at Rochester, Pa., a station on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad. Mr. Lincoln alighted from the car to stretch his long limbs by walking on the station platform. His identity became known to the townspeople assembled there, and a friendly conversation with him ensued.

In reply to a reference to the threatening political outlook he said, "Oh, no one has been hurt yet."

Seeing a tall man in the crowd, Mr. Lincoln remarked that he and the man were of almost the same height and proposed that they measure. They took off their hats and stood together, back to back, while some one placed a hand above their heads and found Mr. Lincoln to be slightly the taller.

Education For Women.

The United States are all right in respect to the education of women. Great Britain lags a little behind, but she is trying to catch up. France is giving her women the best possible opportunities in this direction. In the French universities for what is called the higher education there were enrolled in 1880 1,000 women and in 1900 20,000. In the other European countries there is a disposition to open the universities to girls, but a lack of the necessary preparatory schools. Germany, which gives to men educational advantages which are not surpassed in the world, is not abreast with most civilized nations in educating women. The present Russian minister of education has recently stated that "a 12 years' course of uninterrupted study would make such demands on the mental and physical powers of girls that, after graduation, they would be unfitted for life's work." Only a hundred years behind the times, that's all. There is, however, some advance along this line even in Germany.

Japan has shown her characteristically progressive spirit in providing already a university education for new women. Even Honduras has established an American college for girls, and little Porto Rico sends up to know if Chicago university will not take some of her men and women too. It may be said in general terms that the modern tendency of all civilized nations is in the direction of educating women. Without education they must remain in an inferior position. With education there is no limit to their possible achievements.

He Despised Tobacco.

The healthful or reverse action of tobacco has been an absorbing question for decades and one hard to settle. Emerson, cautious as he was, was once drawn into a discussion on the subject and, being a nonuser of the weed, was an ardent advocate of its abolition as a marketable commodity.

"Did you ever think about the logic of stimulants?" he asked. "Nature supplies her own. It is astonishing what she will do if you give her a chance. In how short a time the gentle excitation of a cup of tea is needed! Conversation is an excitant, and the series of intoxications it creates is healthful and innocent, but the long cigar that you have is that with which to pry into the delicate tissues of the brain."

A Bold Defense.

"An enlisted man once put the president of a court martial in a difficult position," says a writer in Cassell's Magazine. "The court martial was trying the soldier for some fault or other. When the evidence—and it took an unusually long time—had been given, the president asked the prisoner if he had anything to say in his defense.

"'Well, sir,' said the man, 'I can't see how this 'ere court can sentence me, for Major Jones 'as been under a paper under the table the 'ole blooming time, and Captain Smith 'as been making me into a caricature on the blotting pad, and as for Lieutenant Brown, he hasn't 'ad his commission a year, and don't count anyways!'"

Powers of Endurance.

"When my grandfather was a young man," said the boy with a snub nose, "he could run ten miles without stopping."

"I heard my grandfather make a prayer 25 minutes long once at a prayer meeting," responded the boy with the dirty face, "an it didn't faze him."—Chicago Tribune.

The Lexington Investment Company does business on a life insurance plan by reversing the plan.

Life Insurance Companies pay large sums to the few of their members who die.

We pay a smaller sum to all of our members as their coupons die.

Life Insurance Companies guarantees to pay to its members three dollars for every one received from them.

The Lexington Investment Co. is an improvement over all other plans of investment Cos.

1. Because it pays more money.
2. Because after the third payment the member is eligible to receive a cash income which increases his payments in the meantime, decreasing until the certificate is killed.
3. Because it redeems its coupons in a regular consecutive order and has so called untimely drawings. Lottery features attached to it by which it possible [illegible] over the few at the expense of the many.
4. Because after three years, if the certificate is not killed, the holder may obtain a "paid up" certificate and cease paying on same, his remaining coupons being redeemed thereafter in their regular order.

Our strength, like life insurance, lies in our membership but unlike Life Insurance our field of business is unlimited, as everybody is eligible to membership. No medical examination required.

Eccentric Testators.

Joseph Bailey takes the opposite advice by this will of insulting his son-in-law in terms which doubtless had a pungency once, but which are hardly comprehensible to the modern reader. He gives to my daughter Ann Spencer, in exchange for a ring, or any other bauble she may like better, five cents to the same, provided, however, that she buy him a new necktie, and this legacy I give him as a mark of my appreciation of his prowess and nice humor in drawing his sword on me (at my own table), naked and unarmed as I was, and he well fortified with custard."

A grewsome legacy is that of Philip Thicknesse: "I give my right hand to be cut off after my death, to my son, and I desire it may be sent to him in hopes that such a right may remind him of his father's goodness to him, and long abandoned the duty he owed to a father who once affectionately loved him."

Another father seems apparently to have begun his will with the determination of punishing an unruly son, but as the fairy stories say, all ends happily. We refer to the will of Richard Crawshay, the founder of the famous Welsh ironworks. It runs thus: "To my only son, who never would follow my advice and has treated me rudely in very many instances, instead of enacting him my executor and residuary legatee (as till this day he was) I give him £100,000."—Chambers' Journal.

Extreme Affectation.

A young man whose battered suit case was covered with pink and yellow with the labels of European hotels boarded a street car and said to the conductor: "I go six blocks. How much?"

"Oh, six nickels," the conductor answered. But the young man handed over 15 cents, saying, "Buy yourself a glass of beer and a cigar on me."

The astonished conductor looked at the tip and added, "Just back from Europe, hey?" And to his interrogation the young man nodded assent.

Out on the front platform afterward the conductor described the episode to a couple of passengers. "He asked me what the fare was for six blocks," he said, "and then he gave me a tip as if it was a case of fake absentmindedness. He has just returned from Europe, where you pay by the distance on the street cars and where you tip the conductors, and he pretended to forget he wasn't in Europe still."

"He thought he'd catch on him about his strange conduct, and I would have, too, if the trick wasn't an old one to me. Here and in New York, especially in New York, you are constantly running up against people who forget and work European customs on you. They do it so you'll know they have been abroad."—Philadelphia Record.

An Old Time English Election.

The only contest which occurred at Gatton within living memory was a curious enough. Sir Mark Wood, who had been one of its members for several years, had in his entourage in the parliament of 1812 Sir William Congreve, the inventor of the famous "Congreve rocket." The latter resigned in 1816, and the borough wished his own son to fill the vacancy.

There were only three voters in the constituency, Sir Mark, his son and his butler, named Jennings, but as the seat was away and the butler had quarrelled with his master an opportunity was afforded for a singular revenge. Jennings refused to sell his vote to the nomination of his son and proposed himself, and a deadlock was averted only by Sir Mark coming to terms with the refractory butler. Whose nomination he seconded in order to induce him to act as seconder to his son.

Matters being thus put formally in train, Sir Mark proceeded with proceedings that the farmer's vote should be alone given, and the final estate of the poll: Jennings, 1; Wood's son, 0. Jennings thus became duly elected three times. Wood (Tory), 1; Jennings (Whig), 0.—Westminster Gazette.

THE SCHEME WORKED.

A Scheme by Which Brown Quieted His Wife's Suspicion.

To be candid, Mr. Brown does not go to his Girlwood street office every night that he tells his wife he is going there. The business which compels his evening is frequently imaginary and the man whom he is going to meet does not exist. He belongs to a club, which has no rooms or functions. He thought that his wife was growing suspicious, and Brown is reconstructed.

One day in the evening in question, as the lawyers would say, he told her that there was a matter of business that could not possibly be deferred until the next day, and at 8 o'clock Mr. Brown seized the 'phone and was asked if Brown was at home, and she replied that he was at his office.

"Good!" was the alarming response. "I was just down there and all looked dark."

She rang off violently, if women ever do such things, ordered a coupe, told the driver to go as fast as the ordinance allows, kept eating on temper as she went and dashed up stairs to the office as though a mouse were in her pursuit. Her husband met her smilingly, insisted that she had given him a delightful surprise, put his easiest chair near the light, handed her a paper and apologized for having to resume work that would possibly keep him till 3. She could not explain, she could not keep awake, she was asleep at the end of her self, and after lamely telling him that she had dreamed that he was ill she left.

In ten minutes he was at the club and shook hands with a man who smilingly asked if the scheme worked. He replied that it was as good as ever, the money for at least 30 days, and then each bought a stack of chips that lasted the night.—Detroit Free Press.
